Bureau Score

The Bureau Score is calculated from an algorithm based on information in your current available credit data and is a fluid number which may change from time to time in tandem with changes in your credit information.

The Bureau Score or this Credit Report does not draw any conclusions or make credit decisions for financial institutions. The Bureau Score is only one of various pieces of information used by financial institutions in their credit assessment process. The use of the Bureau Score by a financial institution for credit assessment is entirely optional. Each financial institution has its own internal credit score and risk profile for each applicant including the applicant's financial and demographic information. Credit Bureau (Singapore) Pte Ltd is not involved in any way in the credit decision process of the financial institution.

Explanation of Scorecard values

Score

Bureau Score

The score ranges from 1000 to 2000, where, statistically, within the next 12 months, individuals scoring 1000 have the highest probability of defaulting on a repayment, whereas those who score 2000 have the lowest chance of reaching a delinquency status.

Probability of Default

The probability of the consumer defaulting based on statistics and the population average, within the next 12 months.

Key Contributing Factors associated with this Rating

Immature Credit History Marginally Increases Risk

Factors affecting the Bureau Score

The Bureau Score may be affected by various combinations of key contributing factors such as frequent/recent enquiries for new credit and presence of default or slow payment statuses. Possible ways to improve your Score is to reduce the number of unnecessary new credit applications, as lenders will enquire a credit report on you and these will reflect in the previous enquiries count. Paying your credit bills on a timely basis and avoiding any overdue and default payment behavior will also have a positive impact to your Score.

The above are some of the common contributing factors but the Bureau Score makes use of all available data to formulate the final result and it is not only dependent on any one of these.

Adverse

No adverse information could be found on the subject.

A credit limit is the maximum amount of credit that a financial institution will extend to the individual for a particular line of credit. The individual's total credit limit (categorized under secured, unsecured and exempted credit limit) will also be displayed. Where more than one credit card is issued by a financial institution to a borrower, some financial institutions may subject the credit cards to a shared common credit limit (e.g. a single credit limit of $10,000 shared over 4 credit cards) and will report the shared limit to the credit bureau accordingly. For term loans, the credit limit of a term loan that has yet to be disbursed is generally taken to be the full loan amount. After disbursement, the credit limit will start to reduce in accordance to the outstanding balances remaining monthly as repayment occurs.

OTHER INFORMATION

AGGREGATED OUTSTANDING BALANCES

Outstanding balances are generally computed based on the amounts outstanding under borrowers' credit cards and credit facilities, including any fees and interest accrued thereon. Breakdown of aggregated outstanding balances by product type can be found below.

Outstanding Balances and Credit Limits of Secured facilities (fully secured by Cash Deposits and/or Fixed Deposits) are not reported to CBS.

Reported credit card outstanding balances are generally based on balances reflected in customers' statements, rather than month-end balances.

Interest-bearing unsecured balances refer to balances that are subject to interest charges. For example, credit card balances that are not fully repaid by the payment due date are usually charged interest. Non-interest-bearing unsecured balances are amounts that are not subject to interest. For example, credit card balances that are fully repaid by their due dates are usually not charged interest.

For Instalment Payment Plan, the full loan amount charged at the point of purchase with the merchant would be included as part of the outstanding balances. The outstanding balances will be reported every month on a reducing balance when the instalment amount has been paid according to the terms as agreed with the lender.

For personal loans on instalment plans, the full loan amount outstanding, including principal amounts not yet billed, would be included in outstanding balances.

Financial institutions do not have a breakdown of the outstanding balances by Product Types and Grantor Bank and only have an aggregated total balances. Outstanding balances shown in CBS report do not alter customer's repayment obligations and borrowers remain subject to the terms and conditions that have been agreed with their lenders.
